

BATTLE OF FALLEN TIMBERS AND THE TREATY OF GREENVILLE

CA 8th Grade US History Standard 8.5.3

Battle of Fallen Timbers

As more settlers moved into Native American lands conflicts increased and the settlers asked for government assistance.

Little Turtle

In 1791, Little Turtle, Chief of the Miami's, convinced his tribe and several others to fight against the settlers.

Well armed from the French and Indian War, Little Turtle and his warriors drove out most of the settlers and defeated General Arthur St. Clair.

Eventually, Little Turtle came to believe battle was not the answer and refused to continue fighting. He was replaced by Chief Blue Jacket.

Battle of Fallen Timbers

Washington sent in General “Mad” Anthony Wayne to take on Chief Blue Jacket. They met at a place called Fallen Timbers.

The Native Americans hoped the fallen trees would make it more difficult for Wayne’s soldiers. But Wayne and his men defeated the Native Americans.

The result was the Treaty of Greenville in 1795.

The Native Americans gave up 25,000 square miles of land.

The Native Americans received $20,000 and a promise of peace.